Part I Reading Comprehension (40 points)

Directions: There are 4 passages in this part. Each passage is followed by some questions or incomplete sentences. For each of them there are 4 choices marked A, B, C and D. You should decide on the best choice and mark the corresponding letter on the Answer Sheet. (2×20)

Passage 1

Since ancient times, frugality has been one of the traditional virtues among Chinese people. Following this traditional way of life, more young people in China are now frugal, low-cost life styles in order to spend less and save more.

They are beginning to realize and project the pitfalls of consumerism, believing that simplicity can bring happiness and satisfaction.

Economic and employment pressures, as well as changing attitudes toward material life, and also resulting in more young people turning their backs on extravagance and waste.

Frugality is being practiced in a number of ways. Some young people choose discounts and low priced goods, while others are replacing well-known brands with those that are cost-effective. Some are cautious when buying nonessential items, while others say they save all they can in order to make important purchases.

He Jiazheng, 22, a college student, said he spends about 10 yuan on each meal and no more than 100 yuan on each item of clothing.

He, who is studying economics, said his pursuit of frugality stems from the idea of "realizing maximum happiness through minimum expenditure".

The student added, "As luxury food and brand-name clothing cannot increase my happiness, why not satisfy myself by spending less for the same amount of happiness?"

Passage 2

His desire to put what he learned into practice increased after the university established a Luban Workshop in Ethiopia in 2021. The workshop was part of the professional training programs offered by China's vocational education colleges with the aim of sharing expertise.

To date, Chinese colleges have established 11 Luban Workshops in African countries, offering a wide range of professional training and help for the younger generation in these nations to build up their professional skills.

Liu Bin, president of the Alliance for the Development of Luban Workshops, said a crucial factor behind the flourishing vocational training programs is that they seek to meet surging demand for improved local labor forces as Chinese businesses and products go global.

A total of 27 Luban Workshops have been established in 25 countries, most of them in the developing world. The programs provide training in vocational skills tailored to meet the demands of host countries.

Another crucial factor underpinning the popularity of the workshops is the deepening cooperation between China and countries taking part in the Belt and Road Initiative, or BRI. "Advancing the BRI gave rise to the need for Luban Workshops, which has also given impetus to the initiative," Liu said.

Most of the workshops are located at vocational colleges in host countries, and they are usually established through partnerships between such colleges in China and their local counterparts. The Chinese institutions share their equipment, teaching methods and materials, and provide training for teachers.

Since the first Luban Workshop outside China was set up in Thailand in 2016, the 27 workshops established to date offer degrees to more than 6,100 students and temporary training programs for some 31,500 students. Liu said the workshops have also provided training for more than 4,000 teachers from host countries.

6. Up to now, how many Luban workshops have been set up in African countries.

Passage 3

Shenzhen is trying to be the first choice among Chinese cities for global brands launching flagship stores in the country and a shop window of global brands, according to a recently released action plan on expanding consumption, improving consumption quality and creating new demands (2021-2023).

The plan put forward by the Shenzhen Municipal Commerce Bureau also stressed building local brands to enhance local products' prestige and influence.

First-shop economy and brand economy are important indexes reflecting business innovation and influence of a city, and now play driving roles in stimulating consumption.

"The population structure in which young people take a majority enables Shenzhen to be the first choice for some well-known brands to establish presence in South China market," Zeng Li, supervisor with the research firm JLL South China, said.

Partial statistics from retail business data platform winshang.com showed a total of 72 brands launched their flagship stores in Shenzhen from January to June. Among the shops, 13 were the brands' first shops in the country, 25 were the first in South China and 34 were the first in Shenzhen. Statistics from the city's commerce bureau also showed that 26 shopping centers introduced 97 flagship stores of well-known brands to Shenzhen in 2020. Of the 97 brands, 41 are in cosmetics and fashion business, and 39 engage in catering, including bakeries and beverages, which young people favor. It is estimated that Shenzhen will open 20 complexes with these new business modes and more feature brands will bring new experiences to local consumers in the second half of this year.

In 2020, in a move to be a central city of global consumption, Shenzhen unveiled measures to stimulate the development of first-shop economy to attract famous global brands to set up shops in Shenzhen.

In April this year, the Shenzhen Municipal Commerce Bureau unveiled measures on building international consumption centers. Among the measures, the property owners that introduced first shops or flagship stores of famous brands at home and abroad will receive rewards of 500,000 yuan for a retail outlet and 200,000 yuan for a catering outlet. The reward for one property owner or operator will be no more than 3 million yuan a year. For product launching or shop launching activities of well-known Shenzhen brands, the government will give standard subsidies of 30 percent of the actual cost with a cap of 3 million yuan.

11. What makes it possible for the 121 new flagship stores to open in Shenzhen ?

- A. The city can provide data to these for foreign and domestic business
- B. The city's consumption has made a steady and strong increase.
- C. The city's consumption mainly depends on foreign and domestic businesses.
- D. The city is famous as an international consumption center in South China.

12. 34 stores open in Shenzhen for the first time, which shows_____.

- A. a strong appeal
- B. to leading innovation
- C. a proper policy
- D. in driving plan

13. What is the meaning of the word "catering"?

- A. The work of providing make-up
- B. The work of providing costume
- C. The work of providing entertainment
- D. The work of providing food and drinks

14. Among these new stores, which sector accounts for the highest percentage of first stores?

- A. catering
- B. clothing

C. leisure activity

D. lifestyle

15. Which is the NOT following related to “first store economy” measures?

A. To reward famous global brands for opening their flagship shops in Shenzhen.

B. To reward Shenzhen’s commerce bureau for its contribution.

C. To reward property owners for introducing flagship shop of famous domestic brands.

D. To reward property owners for introducing flagship shop of famous global brands.

Passage 4

Xinjiang reservoir optimizes water use

By CHENG SI in Aksu, Xinjiang | China Daily | Updated: 2023-09-09 00:00

Aksu in the Xinjiang Uygur autonomous region is making efforts to optimize the use of water resources by building a world-class reservoir project, which aims to reduce droughts and floods and reduce their influence on local economic development and people's livelihoods, as well as generate power.

Located at the junction of Wensu and Wushi counties of Aksu, the Dashixia water reservoir project started construction in December 2017, and is expected to test its water-holding function in October 2025 and finish all construction around October 2026.

"This area has a very harsh climate and complicated geological conditions, posing great challenges to our work," said Huang Jin, vice-general manager of Xinjiang Gezhouba Dashixia Reservoir Development Co — the company in charge of construction.

He said that the project requires high-quality construction because of the height of the dam, with its highest point designed to reach 247 meters, in addition to its high flow rate of floodwater release and higher-level resistance to earthquakes.

To better monitor the quality of construction work and collect construction data, the company channeled around 30 million yuan ($4.1 million) to build a smart monitoring system in late 2021.

"The application of the system can not only help us save human resources, but reduce the risk of human errors. We can monitor the construction work during the whole process," said Li Jiandong, the company's director of technology management department.

"For example, we can trace the whole process of dam material from the original mining, transportation and its placement through the system." He added that the system is in trial operation so far, and will be put into service around October to December.

Seeing the project in smooth operation, the 45-year-old Xu Shumei, a senior technician from the company, feels her efforts and contributions are rewarded.

"I've worked in Xinjiang since 1999 after finishing my education in Chongqing, my hometown. And I started to work for the project around four years ago," she said.

She is responsible for quality control, laboratory management and energy saving and emission reduction for the project.

"I've never regretted serving in this industry, and it may be a once-in-a-lifetime chance to get involved in such a world-class project. But I owe a lot to my daughter and parents who need my care because of my work," she said.

16. Which is not the purpose of building a world-class reservoir project in Aska?

A. To reduce droughts

B. To reduce floods

C. To generate power

D. To reduce power generation

17. When is the Dashixia water reservoir expected to finish all construction?

A. Around December 2017

B. Around late 2021

C. Around October 2025

D. Around October 2026

18. How did the company better monitor the quality of construction work?

- A. To manage laboratory energy
B. To build a smart monitoring system
C. To protect the right of laborers
D. To prohibit the risk of human errors
19. What can you infer from this passage?
A. Xu Shumei is a junior technician in charge of quality.
B. Xu Shumei take less care of his daughter and parents.
C. Xu Shumei is a workaholic in eyes of her relatives.
D. Xu Shumei has been the company director for 4 years.

Secondary schools in the Netherlands will ban mobiles phones, tablets and smart watches from the classroom in the new year to try to reduce distractions.

The only exception to the rule will be when the devices are integral to the topic being studied, or if individual students have specific needs because of factors such as disability.

Some schools have already introduced voluntary restrictions, but Education Minister Robbert Dijkgraaf said that while such pieces of technology "are intertwined with our lives, they do not belong in the classroom."

"Students need to be able to concentrate and need to be given the opportunity to study well. Mobile phones are a disturbance, scientific research shows. We need to protect students against this," he said....

The move follows similar steps taken recently in Finland, a country that is widely regarded as having one of the best education systems in the world.

France has also had a ban in place since September 2018. Newspaper Le Figaro reported that before the ban, around 30 to 40 percent of all sanctions issued in senior schools related to the use of mobile phones in the classroom.

六、写作：

Opportunity or Diligence

In the pursuit of success, we often hear that hard work and perseverance are the keys to unlocking opportunity. But is opportunity often seen as luck, a lesser factor? The answer is a complex one. Which one is more important, opportunity or diligence?

A common concept among some people is that opportunities are vital to success. It is not something we can actively seek out or manufacture, but rather something that comes knocking when we're ready. We can seize the opportunity to take our game to the next level.

Another common notion is that working hard is more important. As a saying goes, "God help those who help themselves." So whether there's opportunity or not, what we should do is to study hard and become learned people.

In my opinion, it is also true that we can't simply rely on effort to get what we want. Opportunity is a necessary ingredient. In the end, success is the result of both effort and opportunity, and each plays a crucial role in determining our trajectory.
